

Reporting on biodiversity (Step 2)

Only 70p!

The Daily VOICES

Wednesday May 19th 2010

T-REX HITS
CARDIFF*Dinosaur reborn in Welsh capital*

Welsh scientists shocked the world yesterday when they announced that they had succeeded in recreating a Tyrannosaurus Rex. Imagine that, a 35-foot monster on the streets of Cardiff!

Scientists at the Welsh BioTech lab in Cardiff have been working on various samples of dinosaur DNA for the last 10 years and have now perfected the method for reconstructing cells for dinosaurs which can then be fertilized and grown into living things which walk and breathe.

Welsh Dragon
recreated

For the first time in history scientists have recreated a dinosaur, and it happened in the capital city of Wales. T-Rex will now be the new dragon of Wales, local government has decided. The dragon is the national symbol of Wales.

